

Summary of Poster Board Presentations

Sixteen organizations, in addition to the Office of Research on Women's Health, National Institutes of Health, exhibited posters at AXXS '99. Individual presentations covered a multitude of topics, ranging from general information and handouts to specific and informative displays. Most presenting societies, commissions, and committees posted their mission, history, membership demographics, programs and/or women's committees activities, publications, and/or awards and initiatives. Many described their mentoring programs, offered web sites of interest to scientists, and reported on the demographics of women within a given field of science and/or engineering. The posters were on display throughout the meeting, allowing for a great deal of interaction and information exchange between individuals and presenting organizations.
